

The University of Georgia
2011 Academic Affairs Faculty Symposium
Unicoi Conference Center
March 25 - 26, 2011

Panel I. Student Support Services
Introduction by Jan Hathcote, Moderator

Mark Compton
Associate professor, Poultry Science
Advising Award Winner 2010

Dr. Compton represents the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences and Department of Poultry Science at functions for elementary, middle and high school students. His ability to relate to young people makes him a natural for programs designed to interest prospective science students. He has been intimately involved with the Georgia Science Fair as a volunteer judge. Outside the classroom, Compton has been a faculty advisor for the Poultry Science Club, where he has been actively involved in service projects and club activities from softball games and kayak trips to blood drives and food bank collections.

Julie Segrest
Administrative Manager, Division of Academic Enhancement

Ms. Segrest received her degree in Public Relations from the University of Georgia. She has spent many years of service as an academic advisor and now assists the Department of Academic Enhancement as its Director with day-to-day operations.

Jean Chin, MD, MBA, FACP
Executive Director of the Health Center

Dr. Jean Chin is the executive director of the Health Center. She joined the medical staff in 1988 and served as medical director from 1992 to 2004. She graduated from Tufts University School of Medicine and completed an Internal Medicine residency at New York Medical College's Westchester County Medical Center. She earned her MBA at Kennesaw State University in 2001. Dr. Chin is board certified in Internal Medicine. In addition to her administrative role, she sees patients in the Medical Clinics.

We are hoping that she will speak about some of the health services that we, as faculty, may need to know about. In particular the CAPS program:
